From video camera to spatial media, Nicholi Noah is embedding visions of an abstract future into fine art and education. Providing real world access to the Metaverse through immersive displays of empathy, compassion, and humanity in electronics. Influenced by international travel and a love for world culture, Nicholi embraces challenge as a creative tool to spark new conversations while empowering young artists to push the limits of their own understanding and self-awareness through an open philosophy of personal growth in storytelling.

ARTIST STATEMENT

My work is deceptively simple. Each piece is equal parts self-portrait, personal milestone, and science experiment. From tailor-made to readymade, I pair found object art with custom written software. Breathing new life into everyday electronics purchased second-hand or found on the side of the road. Encoding knowledge and awareness into reflections of hope, belonging, and the desire to be seen.
